About AIA Continental Europe

AIA Continental Europe is a Chapter of the American Institute of Architects. It was founded in October 1993 by architects from the United States working in Europe and by European architects who became qualified in the US and returned to Europe to practice.

The Chapter's members are in 28 countries from Ireland to Russia and from Scandinavia to the Mediterranean, with administrative functions in Paris.

The Chapter recognizes and reflects the cultural and professional diversity of Europe's architecture and building professionals.

As a valued Corporate Partner of the AIA Continental Europe Chapter (AIACE), you will have a special opportunity to heighten your visibility to approximately 200 AIA members working in international markets.

Exposure is primarily through annual Chapter Conferences and communications with Chapter Membership via the Internet.
